NEWS AND COMMENT.

By the way, what has become of the KERR—ALEXANDER episode?

THE prohibitionists were overwhelmingly defeated at Durham in the municipal election.

JOHN NICHOLS has gone down "below the waves" again and the Public printer's place has been given to PALMER, of Illinois.

EX-GOVERNOR JARVIS is prominently spoken of as the first President of the State Agricultural and Mechanical College at Raleigh.

"THE CITY OF PARIS" has broken the record and made her second trip across the ocean in five days, twenty-three hours and seven minutes.

THE public debt of the United States, says the New York Herald, has been decreased one hundred millions of dollars during the last official year.

NORTH CAROLINA may be a "little strip of land between two States," but it certainly is high time that the metropolitan dailies know who the Governor of this "strip of land" is.

A terribly destructive cyclone is reported from Pratt, Stafford and Price counties Kansas; everything in its path was swept away, killing one man outright and fatally wounding eight or nine others.

It might be remarked that native Republicans in certain parts of North Carolina are greatly stirred up about the action of the President in appointing carpet-baggers to office in the Piedmont belt.

"HAWES, the notorious and wilful murderer of his wife and daughter at Birmingham sometime since, has been tried by his countrymen, found guilty, and should be hanged by the neck until he is dead.

THE War Department at Washington has completed the allotment of $400,000 appropriated by Congress for the equipment of malitia. Of this amount North Carolina gets $10,000, whether the metropolitan journals found out who North Carolina's Governor was or not.

HUGH S. THOMPSON, of South Carolina, one of Mr. CLEVELAD'S appointments on the civil service commission, has been appointed by Mr. HARRISON for a term of four years. It will be interesting to learn conclusively if Ex-President CLEVELAND'S influence is still operative at the White House.

VERY appropriately remarks the Philadelphia Record: "Two months and two days in office and still unheard of! What's the matter with Blaine—Blaine the Great, the Jim of Jims who mighty mouths have roared about? What can it be? Has this old time hustler and darling of the 'boys' been polished down into a civilizee?" Evidently such is the case.

THE Farmers' Alliance of North Carolina has chosen State-Secretary L. L. Polk, W. A. Darden, and Elias Carr as its delegates to the meeting of the National Alliance and National Alliance Wheel at Birmingham Ala., on the 15th instant. They will go with special instructions to join earnestly in the fight against the cot ton bagging trust.

HARRISON has not the backbone we thought he had. He has allowed "blocks of five" DUDLEY to "jay-hawk" him into inviting DUDLEY to dine at the White House, and now Dudley says he may dine as "might be expected." We had hoped that the chief magistrate of 60,000,000 of people had more backbone, and we had begun to admire him for the enemies he made.

With Jefferson Davis, the honored ex-President of the Confederate States, as its guest, Fayetteville will be the biggest town in North Carolina at her grand centennial in November next.—Wilmington Star

INDEED she will, brother BERNARD, the feeble efforts of our Oak City contemporary to throw cold water on Mr. DAVIS' coming, in the beginning, to the contrary notwithstanding. All the same Mr. DAVIS will be here, "health and life permitting."

BEN BUTLER charges Admiral PORTER with being a coward during the war, to which PORTER gives the lie, saying that BUTLER is the only man ever heard of who could outlive the contempt of the whole nation—who could always run away in time of war and yet flourish. He says further he came very near thrashing old BEN while he was military Governor of New Orleans, and is sorry now that he didn't do it.

GOVERNOR FOWLE has received many congratulations upon his speech at the Southern Society's dinner at New York last Thursday evening. Ed. Chambers Smith, Esq., who was so fortunate as to be present at the banquet, says Gov. Fowle's speech was incomparibly the best and brightest made on the occasion and that it was well received.—Raleigh Correspondent Wilmington Messenger.

It is certainly a source of pleasure to know that somebody found out who the Governor of North Carolina was, if the Herald and World failed.

Lumber Bridge Items.

Reported for the Observer.]

The weather is especially fine now and farmers are planting cotton with a vim.

Lumber Bridge Light infantry drilled their recruits here last Saturday and made fine success.

Col. Alfred Rowland, of Lumberton, is to deliver the Literary Address of Lumber Bridge High School, June 6th. The commencement sermon will be delivered at 11 a. m., and the address at 3 p. m., and the exercises by the Literary and Musical departments at night. Col. Rowland is a fine, impressive speaker and the large audience that will surely greet him, will be delighted when they hear him.

We are pained to chronicle the death of the 2-year-old infant son of Mr. A. L. Shaw of this place, which occurred last Monday. This grief stricken family lost two promising children a little more than a year ago, and the wounds were made to bleed afresh in this sad bereavement. They have our deepest sympathies.

Water Works.

For the Observer.]

Let us have water works! The town needs this improvement, and it can be done at very little or no outlay to the town, as the water-tax privilege of those who of necessity will use it, will pay the cost of erection, and the subscription bonds, if issued can be provided for in this way, while we will get the water supply for fire and domestic purposes. Fayetteville will thus be kept on the steady march of improvement.

Let the Business Exchange begin the agitation, and organize effort in this direction and "the Fayetteville Water Works" will soon be an accomplished fact.

What is the Committee of Arrangements doing towards perfecting plans to have a grand centennial celebration in Fayetteville in November, 1889? We hope the gentlemen of the committee will not delay matters, but begin at once. "Preparation in time," is more than half the work done. ENTERPRISE.

The Art of Convincing.

Who shall teach "Reformers" modesty? The conceit of this particular class of human beings is at once amusing and amazing. One of them conceives an idea, or forms a scheme for improving something, and essays to bring over other men to his opinion. Does he make a polite bow and request his auditor to listen to a modest statement of his reason? Far from it. He expects to accomplish his purpose by laying down the following propositions:

1. Any man who does not think as I think is deficient in moral sense.
2. Any man who does not think as I think has had the misfortune not to inherit from his parents a refined and impresible organization.
3. Any man who does not think as I think prefers his interest to his duty.
4. Any man who does not think as I think is a perfect fool, and "little better than one of the wicked."

These propositions to a thorough-going, one-idea'd reformer are self-evident. The only difficulty is that people who are so unhappy as to differ from him in opinion cannot regard themselves in that light. The consequence is that people in general are apt to conceive a certain repugnance to that portion of our fellow-citizens who are identified with "progress" and "the good cause."

These offensive declaimers should learn from Pope,

"To speak, though sure with seeming diffidence," and that,

"Men must be taught as if you taught them not,
And things unknown proposed as things forgot."

Woman and Her Umbrell.

Philadelphia Inquirer.]

Only one woman in ten knows how to carry an umbrella, and she rarely carries her knowledge into practice. Every rain storm proves this. Among men there is a tacit understanding that the umbrella shall be tilted in passing, so that neither of the pedestrains need be wholly uncovered for even a short time. The tilting is, of course, away from the other pedestrain, and is a considerate and courteous act which both sexes could easily perform. But the women haven't time for anything of this kind. Their eyes are fixed on some distant point, and they strike out in that direction like pedestrians in a go-as-you-please race.

Not infrequently they lower their heads and charge upon an individual or a group with results which are often dangerous. If by any chance they collide with persons moving in the other direction, they glare at the new comer in a manner which would have made Lady Macbeth's worst scowl seem an angelic smile by contrast. They are equally polite in this matter to members of their own sex, and some laughing collissions often occur, for even they will admit that they have less patience with women than with those hated creatures, the men.

Freight Rates On Iron.

Baltimore Manufacturer's Record.]

When Messrs. Carnegie and Hewitt attempted to force Northern railroads to reduce their freight rates on the claim that it was the rates of Southern roads which enabled the Southern iron business to prosper, the iron makers of the South to show that they have not been the especial favorites of the railroads any more than Northern works. The Manufacturers' Record in its last issue gave some statements on this point from a leading Southern iron maker, and it supplements these by some statistics furnished by a good authority as to the relative freight rates North and South:

RATES ON PIG IRON.

	From Shenango Valley.			From Birmingham.
To	Miles.	Rate.	Mills ₱ ton ₱ mile.	Miles.	Rate.	Mills ₱ ton ₱ mile
Chicago	475	2.20	.463	649	4.00	.616
Evansville	559	2.50	.454	362	2.75	.760
Indianapolis	381	1.80	.472	504	3.25	.645
Greencastle	419	2.20	.525	537	3.75	.700
E. St. Louis	596	2.50	.420	525	3.25	.619

These figures show that from the Shenango Valley, taking Pittsburg as the initial point, the rate per ton per mile, on pig iron runs from .42 of a cent per mile, the rate to St. Louis, to .525 cents per mile to Greencastle, while the lower rate from Birmingham in this list is .619 cents per mile and the highest .76.

The Confederate Home.

For the Observer.]

MR. EDITOR:—There should be a home for disabled Confederate soldiers in North Carolina.

Now that the movement has been set on foot, let it be pressed to a speedy, and successful termination.

Other Southern States have made provision for their disabled Confederates, and still others are moving in that direction.

Allow me to suggest a plan, which may or may not accomplish the desired end, but is worth the trial.

Let the public spirited ex-Confederates in every county in the State organize Confederate Veteran Associations with as many members as may be possible to obtain, with a membership fee, of fifty cents, or a dollar and monthly, or quarterly dues of such amounts as may be most available, and according to the circumstances, and surroundings of each association.

Let the membership fees as well as the dues be set apart as a "Fund for the Confederate Home" and to these amounts may be added such contributions, and voluntary donations, as may be disposed to aid so worthy a cause.

The ladies of North Carolina may also, and doubtless will, if appealed to, in the varous counties, aid the associations, by giving entertainments with the stated purpose of raising money for "The Confederate Soldiers Home."

This ever has, and always ought to, as I believe it will, meet with a generous response, from the people of our Southern land.

Lastly, let the "Home" be built in the town of Fayetteville, where we have health, pure water, as fine a climate and as much natural beauty as can be found anywhere in the South—to which may be added a people whose every heart-throb beats in sympathy with the indigent and disabled ex-Confederate soldier.

THOMAS H. SUTTON.

God's Glory.

Wilson Mirror.]

The wild flower is scenting the breeze, where the butterfly is revelling in a paradise of sweets, and the lark is teaching her nestlings their first hymn of praise. See now how God leaves his impress—look up into Heaven, which an invisible hand has painted so deeply, beautifully blue, while the sun is looking light upon all beneath its radiant track, see then how God has flung out his sign and written his name. Go out at night-fall, upon some spreading vale, where reposes the peaceful herds up on its couch of turf, when the moon, like a pearl in heaven, is scattering the lucid coruscations of its silvery car, as tho' a shower of the dust of diamonds was sprinkling the shining air, and the starry hosts that rejoice in her train are serenely floating amid wavy undulations of sublimated either—and do you not feel and know there is a God? There is an everywhere present and presiding deity—the mountain enthrones him in its sunlight grandeur, there his smile is in the sunshine and his song is on the gale. The flying storm bears him upon its billowy folds—then his chariot is the cloud and his voice is the thunder. The sounding board of old ocean receives his footsteps, for then the winds are his wings with which he lashes the waves into foam, or fans them to repose while the boom of rushing waters proclaim Him Almighty. When He stood upon the mountain He recorded his name in characters of light upon its heaven-pointed peak—when He rode upon the storms hanging in the sky, and bending over the earth He left his sign in the rainbow. And when He passed upon the deep, He spread it as a mirror behind Him, to hold in far-off reflection the jeweled banners of His realm. From earth, which He has carpeted for His footstool, and heaven, which he has sky-curtained for His throne, the sound of His name and the song of His praise is borne in the mingled melody of human tongue and angelic lyres.

How Colds Are Caught.

Chamber's Journal.]

Fear acts as a depressant to the nervous system, crippling its powers of resisting the action of the cold—hence the phrase, "shivering with fear." Similarly innumerable events of daily life tend to irritdte, depress or excite the nerves and render them unfit for maintaining the body temperature against the fluctuations of weather and climate. During these unguarded moments a trifling exposure to cold or damp is sufficient to induce catarrh.

It is known that stout boots, umbrellas and wraps, though excellent preservatives in their way, are not by any means the only precautionary measures to be adopted; that we must endeavor to strengthen the nervous system, if it be defective, and that when we are compelled to expose ourselves to cold or wet when the nerves are depressed from ordinary causes, such as fatigue, anxiety, grief, worry, fear, dyspepsia or ill humor, we should be especially careful to guard against cold.

The Garbage-Box.

Good Health.]

The garbage-box, or, as this receptacle of filth sometimes is, the swill barrel, is an enemy to health, which ought not to be tolerated in a civilized community. The idea that a saving of such refuse as usually goes into these receptacles is a measure of economy is a grave error. The infinitismal savings is vastly more than balanced by the enormous waste incurred in the injury to health. The best method of disposing of these waste substances is consumption in the kitchen or furnace fire. The objection some urge, that the odor of burning vegetable trimmings, scraps of meat, etc., is offensive, without force, since the gases produced by the consumption of coal or wood are vastly more poisonous in character than are the odors objected to, and if the draft of the stove is sufficient to carry away these dangerous gases, it is able to dispose of the odors as well. Our earnest advice is to burn the garbage and garbage-box also.

The Country Editor's Wife.

JEFFERSON DAVIS' ROMANCE.

The Strategem by Which He Secured a Bride When a Young Lieutenant.

From the Philadelphia News.]

The first marriage of Jefferson Davis was of a somewhat romantic character. After graduating at West Point he was ordered to Fort Crawford at Praire du Chien, Wisconsin. The post then was commanded by Col. Zachary Taylor. The daughter of the latter Miss Sallie Knox Taylor, at once fell desperately in love with the handsome and intellectual young lieutenant, and the affection was reciprocated, but the old Colonel was averse to any match making under the circumstances and preemptorially forbade Davis from visting his quarters except in an official capacity. The lovers managed to see each other by strategem, however, and one morning at daylight they were missing. The household was instantly aroused, the servants interogated and a search made, but nothing was elicited save that the door of the stable was open, four horses gone, and their tracks indicated a hasty departure. Further examination of the premises showed that Lieut. George Wilson, brother of Thomas S. Wilson, of Dubuque, Ia., and Miss Street, daughter of Gen. Street, had likewise suddenly disappeared. There was but one conclusion, and in less than an hour every man, woman and child in the village knew all about the runaway match.

Col. Taylor was enraged and declared with an oath as strong as he ever used, that under no circustances would he forgive Davis or become reconciled to his daughter's disobedience. Sixteen years passed. "Old Zach" was in command of the United States Army in Mexico, and serving under him was Col. Jefferson Davis at the head of the famous First Mississippi Rifles. At the battle of Buena Vista this regiment covered itself with glory, but Davis while leading one of its charges at a critical moment, fell severely and, it was supposed, mortally wounded. He was born from the field and that evening Gen. Taylor, mounted on Old Whitey paid him a visit. Dismounting, he stepped to the Colonel's cot and extended his hand.

"Jeff," he said, "you have saved the day with your glorious rifles; now let bygones be by-gones; Knox, (the name by which he always called his daughter) knew your worth and metal better than I did."

From that moment, through the war, indeed until the death of President Taylor, the warmest friendship existed between the old companions in arms.

Wedding Fees.

New York Weekly.]

Said a well known clergyman the other day: "I think the clergy have too much to say about the smallness of some of their wedding fees. There is no earthly reason, in the first place, why a clergymay should receive any fees for his services on such an occasion. If fees are to be given at all, they would be much more appropriate when a clergyman is asked to officiate at a funeral, which in some cases consume several hours of his time. But, granting that a wedding fee is allowable, my experience is that such fees are as a rule too large rather than too small. I have officiated at the weddings of a great many mechanics and workingmen, and in a large majority of instances the grooms have given me $10. Some of them have given $15 and $20.

Now, the lowest of these sums is out of all proportion to the average income of a mechanic. It is much more than they can afford for a service which a Christian minister should be glad to render for nothing. And in my practice I have always returned the fee in such cases, unless the groom was so foolishly proud as to refuse it. But in doing so I admit that I am running counter to the almost universal custom of the clergy. My own personal opinion is that in an age like this, when the world is so ready to find fault with the clergy, it would be wise to abolish wedding fees entirely. At the same time I do not assume to decide the matter for any one but myself."

What "Bonanza" Means.

St. Louis Globe Democrat]

We frequently hear people interested in mining speak of bonanzas, expecting them, being in bonanza, etc. All this is calculated to make one believe that the term is purely a mining one, that it had its origin there, and that, in fact, outside of the mining world it has no existence or meaning. This idea is very general, though few people who use it can tell what it means, except that if their mine is in bonanza their stock will be worth more than a dime a share. The fact is that bonanza is, or was originally, completely removed from mining, and at first has no connection whatever with it. It is a Spanish term, and signifies "fair wind and fair weather" It is, of course, applicable to mining, or any other branch of business, in the sense in which it is applied, as, if a person is in "fair wind and fair weather," it is pretty certain that the balances will be piling up on the right side of his ledger.

Duration of Human Life.

New Orleans Picayune.

There is good reason to believe that the average American of this last quarter of the Nineteenth century is longer lived than his ancestors of the last century. The most casual reader cannot fail to have been struck with the frequent notices in the daily press of men and women who have lived well on into their nineties, and promises well to become centenarians. The best medical opioion of the day is that the average duration of human life is not only being made longer, by reason of the improved diet and better sanitary condition of these latter days, but that it is capable of being still further lengthened by still greater improvments in our way and means of living.

Lifting the Hat.

The custom of lifting the hat had its origin during the age of chivalry, when it was customary for knights never to appear in public except in full armor. It became a custom, however, for a knight, upon entering an assembly of friends, to remove his helmet, signifying "I am safe in the presence of my friends." The age of chivalry passed away with the Fifteenth Century, but among the many acts of courtesy which can be traced back to its influence none is more direct in its origin than that of lifting the hat to acknowledge the presence of a friend.

Some Superstitious Statesmen.

Washington Letter in Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Nothing can induce Senator Voorhees to ride in a street car drawn by a white horse.

Senator Joe Blackburn not only takes the white horse but also one having a white spot on it, or one white foot.

Senator Edmunds regards it as unlucky if the first person he meets on emerging from his house is a woman, and will return for a fresh start.

Senator Sherman will not extend his left hand in greeting or receive one extended to him—a familiar habit with politicians.

Senator Call will bury or burn a pair of socks one or both of which he has put on wrong side out.

Representative Kennedy, of Ohio, wears voudoo charm which he obtained from an old negress in the swamps of Louisiana.

When Senator Harris, of Tennessee, is in doubt as to a course of action, he decides it by spitting at a mark.

If Senator Vest, of Missouri, meets a beggar in the streets before he has spent any money he invariably gives to the mendicant.

If the first person Representative Breckinbridge meets in the morning is a colored man or woman he crosses to the other side of the street. He claims if he continues on the other side he will be hoodooed for the entire day.

Senator Evarts is a great admirer of the flaming beauties of the circus posters and theatre announcements on the billboards, which taste he has in common with Hale, of Maine; Butler, of South Carolina, and Pascoe, of Florida.

DeBerry vs. Nicholson.

Rockingham Rocket.

The following is the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of DeBerry vs. Nicholson:

Where a precinct return omits the name of the office voted for, and the complaint avers that the parties to the action were the opposing candidates for a certain office and were voted for as such at the various polling places in the country, which is admitted in the answer, the defect in the return is cured and the votes cast at the precinct should be counted. Irregularities, such as the proper oath not being administered to the registration, the registrar not being legally appointed, the failure to keep open the books for inspection, proper hours on Saturday preceeding the election, and the ballotts being rolled up when deposited in the boxes, do not invalidate an election where no illegal voters were allowed to vote and where the result is ascertained with certainty.

What Mrs. Harrison Detests.

New York World Gossip.]

"If there is one thing above another," said Mrs. Harrison to me, "that I detest, and have detested all my life, it is being made a circus of. And that is what has come to me in my old age, as it were. I've been a show, the whole family's been a show, ever since Mr. Harrison was elected. All last fall I sat in my sewing-room and watched the procession of feet pass across the palor floor, wearing their path into the nap, and disappear like the trail of a caravan into the General's room beyond. Day by day I watched the path grow wider and deeper, and at last the caravan spread out and engulfed us all. But I don't propose to permit myself to be made a circus of forever. If there's any privacy to be found in the White House I propose to find and preserve it."

Cost of Private Cars.

St. Louis Globe Democrat.]

Many extravagant stories are in circulation as to the cost of private cars, such as are used by railroad magnates, opera singers, imported actors and millionaires, and I have often heard it stated that an average Pullman palace car is worth $60,000. Stories are printed about cars costing all the way from $100,000 to $200,000. The fact of the matter is that a palace car costs $12,000 complete. The make up of all cars, regular or special, is about the same. Additional cost is brought about by the internal decoration, and that must necessarily be limited. I doubt if there ever was a car constructed that ever cost more than $25,000. To exceed that figure would require a decoration exclusively in jewels and the precious metals.

Waltzing and Working.

It is estimated that eighteen waltzes are equal to about fourteen miles of straight walking; and that a delicate young woman who is too weak to assist her mother prepare the evening meal, will indulge in the entire eighteen waltzes a few hours later without experiencing fatigue. This apparent phenomenon is easy of solution. when we come to think about it. The delicate young girl waltzes to the strains of spirited music, and has a young man to assist and support her. Eliminate the young man and the music from the waltz, and make them part of the ceremony of preparing the evening meal the case would be different.

The Ways of the World.

"Oh, Saidie," gushed Mamie, meeting her friend on the street, "a dozen of us girls have organized a Browning club, and you must come to our next meeting. It is perfectly lovely."

"What particular poems of Browning's have you read?"

"Oh, we haven't read any yet. We've only met once, and then we talked all the evening about Miss Laura Dunvere, who is going to marry Jack Bullion next week. I don't care much for Browning, anyway."

How to Select a Wife.

Good health, good morals, good sense and good temper, are the four essentials for a good wife. These are the indispensables. After them come the minor advantages of good looks, accomplishments, family position, etc. With the first four, married life will be comfortable and happy. Lacking either, it will be in more or less degree a failure. Upon good health depends largely good temper and good looks, and to some extent good sense also, as the best mind must be affected more or less by the weaknesses and whims attendant on frail health. Young man, if your wife is falling into a state of invalidism, first of all things try to restore her health. If she is troubled with debilitating female weaknesses, buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will cure her.

Poisoned by a Calf.

My little boy broke out with ulcers and sores, the result of the saliva from a calf's mouth coming in contact with a cut finger. The ulcers were deep and very painful, and showed no inclination to heal. I used quite a number of remedies, with no benefit, but got Swift's Specific, and he improved with the first few doses and in a short time was sound and well of the poison, and his general health much improved JOHN T. EUROPE AND AMERICA CONTRASTED WITH EACH OTHER.

It has been so decreed that we never see things so clearly or understand them so fully as when we look at them in the light of contrast. To understand our position as a nation and fully to appreciate our superior advantages, we cannot do better than to look at these United States of America on the one hand, and the different States of Europe on the other, and view them side by side during the hundred years, the close of which, this country so vigorously and so justly celebrated a few days since in the great city of New York.

On the one side we have to contemplate the harmonious working and the happy results of a government "of the people, by the people and for the people." On the other side we have to contemplate an almost continuous struggle between conflicting rights—the so called rights of an ancient and privileged few, to govern the many, and the rights of equally ancient, but less priveleged many to govern themselves. The result on both sides of the Atlantic have been more or less the same in character; but very different in degree. The Nineteenth Century, more than any century in all the past, has been marked by popular triumphs. In Europe these triumphs have been spasmodic and occasional, while the resulting benefit has not always been abiding. In the United States these triumphs have been steady, almost continuous, and the happy results to-day stand as living monuments to the American standard of patriotism and statesmanship.

History further teaches us that success on this side of the Atlantic is largely due to the excellence of the Constitution formulated by the fathers of the Republic—a Constitution which has had no precedent in the history of nations, and which is the fruit of a full recognition of the rights of the individual man, as such, and the rights of the individual man, as qualified by the rights of his fellow citizens. As the late JOHN BRIGHT put it thirty-five years ago in the common-place book of JOHN B. GOUGH, at the request of the latter: "The history of the United States is the history of a great nation, which, with a daring equal to the navigator who first discovered her shores, traverses the political ocean, guided by the wrecks of systems which have failed, and by the principles which monarchs and statesmen have rejected. The American Commonwealth is not a copy, it is a great original; it treads a path all but untrodden by every other State, and makes discoveries which, hitherto, historians in their brightest pages have not recorded."

Again we are taught that the drawbacks on the other side, if not mainly are solely, due to the fact that not one of the nations has reached that point—that full and willing comprehension and appreciation of the rights of men individually and collectively—which was reached on this side of the Atlantic when our Constitution was formed. We have not been without difficulties—great and serious difficulties; but all our difficulties have been got over without any violation of the Constitution; and notwithstanding the numerous and varied demands, put upon us by a growth of population, through immigration, unprecedented in numbers and nationalities, we have been able without any strain to meet every requirement. Constitutional changes have been found necessary, and they have been made as necessity or convenience called for them; but they have in every instance been evolutionary—developements rather than radical alterations. The basis having been broad, sound and solid, we have had no difficulty with the growing superstructure.

How different it is and has ever been in Europe is patent to every intelligent observer of events. One hundred years ago Europe was a very different Europe to what it is to-day. There has been change, and there has been progress; but how far is Europe at this day and time from the Constitutional standard with which the American people started? The year on which our first President was inaugurated marked an epoch in European as well as American history. In the summer of that year, the long-suffering patience of the French people gave away; their long repressed energies found expression; the Bastille, the frowning embodiment of the tyrany of ages, fell, and the shock resounded throughout France and Europe generally, like the tocsin of liberty. It is unnecessary to dwell upon the events which followed—events some of them, too horrible to think of. It is sufficient to behold the France of to day. How manifold, how trying has been her experience during the last hundred years! Republic, Empire, Kingdom, have repeated themselves in bewildering succession; civil wars and foreign wars have put the nation through the school of an unparalleled hard experience; but can we say that the France of to-day has reached the end of her troubles, or have we any just reason to hope that in the next hundred years she will find peace, contentment and prosperity on a sound, solid, satisfactory constitutional basis? It is something well fitted to fill the mind with sadness to see France by a grand exhibition, celebrating the centennial of the fall of the Bastille, and birth of national liberty, tortured and troubled by such a creature as BOULANGER. We hope well for France, our first and most generous ally; but we regret that her grip on liberty has so often been proved so feeble, and that even now she is finding it so hard to grope her way out of darkness into light.

Looking retrospectively over the "gray dawn" of the past, we find England, one hundred years ago, suffering all the pains of humiliation because of the loss of her American colonies. The ruling classes felt the blow severely; but the popular sentiment was finding encouragement, and popular rights began to be asserted with greater force than had been common for many centuries or perhaps ever before in English history. If in any country in Europe progress has been characteristic of the increasing years, that country has been England. But when we look at England of to-day, with all her treasures, with all her wide spreading territory, with her banner on every sea, and with all her magnificent colonies and dependencies, under every sky, can we say that she has reached a sound, solid, constitutional basis? If so, what means this eternal Irish difficulty, this incessant clamor for change in Scotland and England, as well as in Ireland, and this perpetual tinkering at the constitution as it is? Great Britain has undoubtedly a magnificent destiny before her. The empire is mighty, and may continue for generations yet to come; but the poltical institutions are sadly out or harmony with the growing wants of the times. Many of the old and honored institutions are doomed. The special privileges which have from time imemorial been associated with a national church, with a titled aristocracy, and even with royalty itself, will sooner or later be among the things that were; but these changes all of which must be accomplished before a thoroughly popular constitutional basis can be reached, can hardly be brought about without some danger to the State. In Great Britain, as in France, an important part of the progressive journey has yet to be accomplished; and the future, in the one case as in the the other, is by no means free from difficulties.

REV. R. G. PEARSON.

The subject of this sketch was born at Starkville, Miss., and reared by godly parents, who, at the age of six and one-half years confessed Christ and gave his heart to Jesus. He graduated at Cumberland University, Tenn., in 1876, and afterwards located at Tupelo, Miss., as pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church of that place. In 1878 he married Miss Mollie Bowen, of Oxford, Miss, who was at that time a teacher in Union Female College. In 1880 he was called to the pastorate of Cumberland Presbyterian church, Columbia, Tenn., which he accepted and there remained until 1882, when he accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church at Nashville. At the expiration of his first year's work at Nashville he engaged exclusively in evangelistic work. His pastoral charge at Nashville marks an important chapter in the history of his life, as it was there that he held quite a number of revival meetings, which were abundantly blessed with an outpouring of God's Holy Spirit and the conversion of many souls to Christ. This fact, coupled with other incedents of his life, convinced Mr. Pearson that the evangelistic field was the work God had assigned him to, where he says he will spend the remainder of his life. Since that time he has been called to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church, of Louisville Ky., but declined for the reasons given above.

Mr. Pearson's first efforts as an evangelist, was conducting denominational revivals, but God so blessed his labors that a call was made for holding union meetings of the various denominations, and now he goes to any city or town where any three of the denominations will unite in the work. In all his evangelistic work Mr. Pearson tells us he has never preached for any stipulated amount and that no amount would induce him to go to a town where there is no concert of action among the children of God; that his mission is to preach the gospel and receives only such voluntary contributions as the people feel willing to give, to the end that "the laborer is worthy of his hire."

Some places remunerate him very liberally, while others absolutely fail to pay expenses. Be it said to the honor and glory of North Carolina, no State, Mr. Pearson tells us, has been so generous in voluntary contributions as the Old North State. So well pleased is Mr. Person with the good people of our State and its unequalled climate that he has adopted North Carolina as his permanent home. His work has principally been confined to the South and South-West, but his voice has been heard in the cause of Christ from the Carolinas on the East to the Rocky Mountains on the West; from the Ohio River to the Gulfs, and he has held meetings in Nashville, Tenn., Evansville, Ind., Lincoln, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., Colorado Springs, Col., Dallas, Tex., Houston, Tex., Lynchburg, Va., Wilmington, Goldsboro, Winston, Asheville, Charlotte, Raleigh and Fayetteville, N. C., Greenville, S. C., Vicksburg, Miss., Meridian, Miss., Shreveport, La., Sedalia and Springfield, Mo., Owensboro an Bowling Green, Ky., Fayetteville, Ark., Spartanburg, S. C., besides quite a number of smaller towns over the country. Mr. Pearson tells us that he conducts on an average about ten meetings a year, and an approximate idea of the good he has done may be formed from the fact that last year he witnessed the conversion of about 3,000 souls, not counting the reclimation of back sliders.

Mrs. Pearson accompanies Mr Pearson on his campaigns, and is a zealous worker for the cause of her Maker, and holds, in a quiet way, ladies' meetings, for the purpose of teaching them how the Scriptures should be taught in ordinary church work. Engagements are already made for the next year's work, and Mr. Pearson will spend June, July and August at his home in Asheville, and in September will open his campaign at Danville, Virginia, taking in among other cities and towns, Louisville, Ky., Charleston, S. C., Huntsville, Ala., and Baltimore, Md.

Mr. Pearson will carry with him the prayers and good wishes of the people of Fayetteville whithersoever he goeth.

EVANGELIST PEARSON.

This writer has been constant in his attendance upon the church of God from childhood days, but is frank to admit that he never heard such an exposition of the teachings of the Bible as we have been taught by the sermons of Evangelist Pearson during his series of meetings now going on in this city.

People who have hitherto attached no importance to the preaching of God's holy word have been brought to a sense of their spiritual condition and now join in the sweet anthem "Nearer my God to thee" through the magnatism of this wonderful divine and the powerful though simple instrumentalities used by him for regeneration.

We have "drank in" the burning eloquence of the immortal Talmage, the stirring pathos of the mighty Beecher, and read with unfeigned interest the logic and power of the great and only Spurgeon, but never before have we heard such preaching as the sermons delivered by Evangelist Pearson. Not for poetry, not for rhetoric and gusto, not for pulpit oratory, for his sermons are barren of the above, but on the contrary, are replete with the holy word of God. While he is plain and outspoken in his declarations, his sermons are nevertheless free from the slang and vulgarity that unfortunately characterizes the sermons of the two Sams—Small and Jones.

Death and Burial of Dr. Chas. Phillips.

Raleigh News and Observer.]

Thousands of hearts will be saddened by the news of the death of the Rev. Dr. Chas. Phillips, which occurred Friday morning in Columbia, S. C., at the residence of his son-in-law, John S. Venner, Comptroller General of South Carolina. The body was brought to Chapel Hill yesterday attended by Prof. Wm. B. Phillips and A. L. Phillips, sons of the deceased. The news of the death caused profound grief in Chapel Hill, whence Dr. Phillips and wife had so recently departed with every exhibition of love, esteem and admiration by the entire population of the village. The University exercises for Saturday were suspended. A committee of the faculty, another of the students, another representing New Hope church, and another of citizens of Chapel Hill met the body at University Station. The entire body of students and faculty, with many villagers, escorted the body from the train to the Presbyterian church, where services were held by Rev. Mr. Wilhelm, and the mortal remains of this noble teacher, scholar and preacher were placed in the Chapel Hill cemetery by the side of his father and mother, to sleep till the Resurrection Dawn. Weary spirit rest in peace!

[Mr. Phillips was a distinguished D. D., LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University for nearly fifty years, and connected with the institution from time to time as student, tutor and professor. Besides he was recognized throughout the South as a preacher, teacher, author and influential public man.—ED. OBSERVER.]

Complimentary to Fayetteville.

BENNETTSVILLE, S. C., May 13, 1889.

Capt. J. C. Huske, Fayetteville, N. C.,

DEAR SIR:—I hoped to have an opportunity to publicly, on behalf of the Gordon Rifles, thank you and the command you represent, for the hospitalities extended to us on Friday; failing in this, I will have to beg that you be the medium through whom we convey our high appreciation of the handsome manner in which we were entertained. The boys, one and all, were perfectly delighted with Fayetteville, her citizens and military company, and we all unite in kindest wishes for the welfare of the historic Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry, and look forward with pleasure, to a time when she can vistit her baby sister of the Palmetto State, when she will surely find a loving and heartfelt welcome awaiting her.

I am, Respectfully yours,
JNO. L. McLAURIN,
Captain Gordon Rifles.

Waxhaw Dots.

Monroe Enquirer-Express.]

Waxhaw is stirred up over the prohibition question.

Rev. J. H. Wiley preached to a large congregation here Sunday. The congregation was so large that not one-fourth could get into the school house.

The Methodist congregation gave out the contract to build their church to-day. The contract was awarded to Messrs. Hartsell & Osborne to be finished by the first of August.

The Presbyterians will be ready to receive bids for their church in a week or two.

Col. W. W. Walkup had the new Presbyterian minister of Tirzah up at our place last week introducing him to our citizens.

There is a big demand here now for lumber. Mr. J. D. Adams and Mr. J. H. Starns are running their mills on full time and then can't keep up with their orders.

We see that Mr. J. W. McMurray is shipping a lot of fine oak lumber.

Mr. B. D. Heath, the leading merchant of Monroe and a partner of Morrow Bros., of this place, stopped for a few minutes Monday.

Waxhaw expects to do a big cotton business next fall. There has already been between two and three thousand bales sold here this season.

Mr. R. A. Hudson, one of the biggest farmers of Union county, was in our town to-day, and reported that what cotton was up is looking sick on account of cold weather.

2ND WEEKLY WEATHER CROP BULLETIN

For the Week Ending Saturday, May 11th, 1889.

By H. B. Battle, Ph. D.]

Our reports for the week ending Saturday, May 11th, still indicate a favorable condition of the crops. The almost entire absence of rain in the State may have been somewhat injurious in a few localities, but owing to the excessive rains of the week ending May 4th, a great deal of dry weather was required. The temperature in all districts has been above the average and has been favorable to growing crops and the ripening of fruit. Cool weather and light frost occurred in the western portion of the State the first of the week, without injurious effect. A decidely warm wave passed over the entire State during the latter part of the week, maximum temperature of over 90 degrees occurring in many places.

EASTERN DISTRICT.—There was a marked deficiency of rain-fall, about an average temperature and a great deal of sunshine in this district, with a favorable effect upon crops. Planting and farm work generally progressing. Some injury to the potato crop on account of bugs is reported from Edgecombe County. Corn and cotton have been replanted to some extent.

CENTRAL DISTRICT.—The rain-fall nas been decidedly below the average; the temperature and sunshine above the average, with a favorable effect upon the crops. The excessive heat of the latter part of the week has been very favorable to growing crops, cotton especially. An abundance of tobacco plants is generally reported. The season is well in advance and the outlook is encouraging. Light frosts occurred with slight injury. Fruit is doing well, with prospects for a fine yield. Small grains generally looking well.

WESTERN DISTRICT.—No rain, an excess of sunshine, and temperature in this district have been somewhat unfavorable to the growing crops, although there is no cause for serious complaint. Cotton has been retarded somewhat and wheat and oats are not doing well. The fruit crop is reported in excellent condition with probabilities of a large yield. Light frosts are reported without serious injury. Seasons generally in advance.

REMARKS OF SPECIAL CORRESPONDENTS.

Eastern District, Richmond County.—"Bad stand of cotton reported. Corn and gardens growing nicely." Halifax.—"The weather of the past week has been fine for cotton planting. Het enough for summer. All crops favorably affected." Perquimans.—"The warm weather has been beneficial to everything planted. Farmers are doing good work. Most have planted cotton and corn." Craven.—"Beautiful weather. Everything looks well and growing finely." Edgecombe.—"Many farmers ploughed up and replanted cotton owing to supposed injury from recent cold spell. They have now discovered their mistake, for the injury was but slight. Cotton which is up is looking well. Potato crops suffering from bugs. Garden peas doing well." Pender.—"No rain. The stand of cotton and corn is good. Latter part of week favorable to the growth of all crops." Brunswick.—"The dificiency of rain has been largely offset by the heavy dews."

Central District. Warren County.—"Cotton is beginning to come up. Farmers are backward with their crops." Caswell.—"Light frost on the lowlands, no damage at all. Tobacco plants plentiful but none set out. Granville.—"The beautiful weather for the past week has enabled farmers to make noticeable progress in their crop operations. Union.—"Grain crop suffering for rain. Cotton seed failing to germinate. Clover and grass needing rain." Davidson.—"Wheat is heading and looks very fine. The warm, clear weather is very beneficial to corn and cotton." Forsythe.—"The weather has been very favorable for all crops." Stokes.—"Frost on the 3d and 4th did slight damage to early vegetables, grain and fruit uninjured. Vance.—"Small grain, clover and grass good. Crop of fruit, except apples, promises to be large." Wake.—"Nice growing weather. Wheat and oats are looking very fine." Johnston.—"About finished planting the cotton crop, about one-fifteenth of this crop replanted. Corn and all small grain looking well." Granville.—"The weather has been unusually warm for the past week, and vegetation is a great deal further advanced than at this time last year." Johnston.—"Wheat and corn looking fine." Gaston.—"Frost on the 4th inst. did but little injury. Abundance of fruit of all kinds. Farmers well up with their work." Alamance.—"The first growing weather we have had, need rain a little now."

Western District. Mecklenburg County.—"The past week has been fine for all farm work. No rain. Wheat and oats small." Cabarrus.—"Wheat and oats have not done well this week. The outlook for the crop is not encouraging. Some farmers are replanting cotton." Rowan.—"It has been rather dry for cotton. Seed is not sprouting as we would like to see it." Lincoln.—"Bad stand of cotton where planted early." Catawba.—"The cool weather has greatly retarded the sprouting of cotton."

Serious Charge Against Father Boyle, of Raleigh.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 11.—Rev. Father J. J. Boyle, Catholic Priest, of church of Sacred Heart, of this city, was arrested here to-night for rape committed on a young lady, who is a member of his church, and also its organist. The affair has created a tremendous sensation, and Father Boyle now occupies a cell in the city prison.

Father Boyle it is stated has for several weeks been indulging heavily in drink and for the last week especially he has been constantly under the influence of intoxicants. His fast living has for some time past been a source of concern to the members of his church and recently the Bishop has been appealed to and measures have been instituted to have him dealt with by the church.

He is a young man and has been pastor of the church here for about six months. He is a native of the State of Pennsylvania and is of Irish descent.

North Carolina People.

Asheville Citizen.]

If the South can be commended for the purity of its American blood, North Carolina, the first upon whose shores white settlement was attempted; one of the first in which settlement became effective and permanent, can claim a peculiar distinction. Streams of population poured in through many channels diffussing themselves in widely separated regions; for eigners, or direct descendants of foreigners, of several sometimes hostile, nationalities—English, Scotch, Scotch-Irish, Germans, each forming its own settlement or colony, each gradually widening its borders, until each in time becomes co-terminous, and the whole quietly and insensibly fused into one people, so as to love original peculiarities and differences, and to form an essentially marked North Carolina character, having clear, strong definition in peace or in war.

Beats the Record.

High Point Enterprise.]

Col. Andrews came here last Friday and owing to the bad weather the previous week he did not find as much track on the new road as he expected to see. The road was within 5 miles of New Market and Col. Andrews was just compelled to have the road there by Saturday night. Capt. Nichols was equal to the occasion. He sent to Greensboro for another engine, conscripted 45 negroes from the Winston road, hired thirteen wagons to haul rails ahead, and with his indomitable energy went to work. At sundown the next day he was at New Market. 5½ miles of track in two days! Who can beat it?

Victory for the Durham & Northern.

BALTIMORE, May 11.—Another victory for the Durham & Northern. The injunction granted to the R. & D. Railroad by Judge Bond preventing the building of a railroad in Durham is dissolved and the bill dismissed without prejudice. Judge Bond has granted an injunction restraining the Richmond & Danville Road from interfering with the Durham & Northern track in Durham.

Death of Mrs. Stonewall Jackson's Father.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 13.—Rev. Dr. R. H. Morrison, father of Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, died at the home of his son, in Lincoln county, at 7 o'clock this morning. His death was totally unexpected, but was due to an affection of the heart. Mr. Morrison was born in 1798, and attended the North Carolina Univerity at Chapel Hill at the same time as did James K. Polk.

Changes in the Code.

Shelby Aurora.]

Sheriffs and magistrates are now authorized to administer oaths in certain cases when the performance of their duties requires them to take justified bonds. Depositions can be taken in certain cases before county commissioners and aldermen. Surveyors are required to have their surveying chains tried by standard keepers.

Supposed Earthquake Shock.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 21.—A shock, vibration from northeast southwest, supposed to be an earthquake, was felt at Annapolis this morning at 3.45. The trembling was accompanied by a loud clap as though something heavy had fallen on the floors of houses.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

W. S. COOK—Notice.
J. D. MCNEILL—Wanted.
CHAS. G. CAIN—Attachment.
GEO. H. HALL—Settlement of A. B. Pearsall & Co.

The Catholic Church in this city is undergoing repairs.

The Eureka Springs, this county, are being put in readiness for entertaining summer visitors.

New turpentine of the '89 crop is coming in to this market and is being sold at very good prices.

The excursion from Wilson last Sunday brought several hundred people here to hear Mr. Pearson.

Court has been in session here for the past two weeks, Judge Gilmer presiding. Will give the proceedings in our next issue.

The sale of McNatt's store and the property advertised by Jno. C. Thomson, on the hill, has been postponed till Saturday at 12 M.

Last week's Bennettsville Democrat chronicles the death of Dr. J. B. Jennings of that place, father of our townsman, Mr. Ed Jennings.

Walter McDonald, (col.) was committed to jail here last week charged with an attempt at criminal assault upon the person of a white lady.

Mr. Alex. Bolton of this county has come to the front with the first matured rye of the 1889 crop, some of which measures five feet from the ground up.

We note with pride that the crops are much more advanced this season than they were at this date last year and are in fact more forward than in average years.

Thanks to Mr. Marion Butler, the Principal for a handsome invitation to attend the closing exercises of Salem High School, at Huntley, Sampson county, on the 23rd and 24th of May. The annual address will be delivered by Hon. Kemp P. Battle, of the University.

Good News From Bladen.

Col. A. H. Worth is here from Bladen and reports the crop outlook from that county as being better than at any time during the past three years.

About Completed.

The work of overhauling and repairing the Baptist Church here is about completed and services were held there last Sunday for the first time in several months.

Off for St. Louis.

Dr. T. D. Haigh and wife left on the Wilson Short Cut yesterday for St. Louis, Mo., to be absent several days on a short visit to relatives in the great western metropolis. Our best wishes attend them for a pleasant sojourn.

Robeson To the Front.

Much to the delight of our many Robeson county patrons, we are able to announce that the United States engineers report that Lumber river can and will be made navigable as far up as Lumberton. Work to commence in the near future.

R. M. Nimocks at Home Again.

The many friends of our popular townsman, R. M. Nimocks, will be glad to know that he returned to Fayetteville this week after an absence of about four weeks in New York, whither he has been for medical treatment, much improved in health.

The Wheat and Fruit Crops of the Piedmont Section.

Capt. A. B. Smith, of High Point made a pleasant call at this office yeterday and reports the wheat and fruit crops throughout the Piedmont section as being better than at any time since the war.

A Busy Bustling City.

The Pearson meetings, Cumberland superior court and the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of this State, in Fayetteville this week have all combined to make Fayetteville present the scene of a busy bustling city for the last few days.

"First In the Field."

The OBSERVER was the first paper in the State—daily or weekly—to publish the proceedings of the annual meeting of the stockholders of the C. F. & Y. V. R. R. Company at Mt. Airy on the 2nd inst., and the first paper outside of Raleigh to publish the captions to the acts passed by the last General Assembly.

Remember the 20th.

The citizens of Fayetteville and Cumberland county will bear in mind that an adjourned meeting of the Mass Convention of our citizens—for the purpose of taking the initial steps looking to a proper celebration of the Centennial anniversary of the adoption by North Carolina of the Constitution of the United States—will be held in the Town Hall May 20th at 12 o'clock M. Let there be a full attendance of the citizens of the town and county.

INTEREST UNABATED.

Hundreds of People Come from Every Direction to hear Mr. Pearson's Wonderful Preaching.

Since our last issue interest in the Pearson meetings have increased daily, and at the night services the crowd has been wonderful, not a vacant seat in the Tabernacle could scarcely be found long before the services commenced. People continue to pour in from the country for many miles around, and such interest as is manifested in Mr. Pearson's preaching is without a parallel in the history of Fayetteville. Between fifty and one hundred backsliders have thus far been reclaimed and no less than two hundred and seventy-five to three hundred men, women and children have publicly confessed Christ, up to this date. Judging from the interest displayed last night and Tuesday night—and every other night as for that—fully half as many more will be converted before the close of this blessed meeting.

Nearly every business house in town closes with the beginning of the morning services at 11 o'clock and the streets present a deserted appearance until the meeting closes. Friday night the meeting closes for good, and on Saturday Mr. Pearson will make his departure for Greensboro, whither he goes to conduct a series of meetings in that city. Everybody should turn out to hear this wonderful child of God preach the Gospel, as it was never before preached.

Annual Meeting I. O. O. F.

The Annual meeting of the I. O. O. F. of North Carolina convened in this city Tuesday, and among other things, elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Grand Master—J. G. Brown, Raleigh.
Deputy Grand Master—Dr. J. H. Pool, South Mills.
Grand Warden—John F. Bruton, Wilson.
Grand Secretary—B. H. Woodell, Raleigh.
Grand Treasurer—R. J. Jones, Wilmington.
Grand Representative—Rev. J. H. Cordon, Raleigh.

The different Lodges of the State were well represented and the order was represented to be in a fine condition, in finances and membership. Three hundred dollars was raised to start an Odd Fellows Orphanage.

Wilmington was chosen as the next place for the Annual Meeting, and the 2nd Tuesday in May selected as the time.

The appointive officers and committees will be made later on to-day, but as we have to go to press, will be forced to give the reminder of the proceedings in our next.

Interesting Facts.

The OBSERVER commences this week, and will continue throughout the season, to publish a weekly weather crop bulletin, together with the remarks of special correspondents from every county in the State. This will prove an interesting feature of the OBSERVER, as it will post our readers regularly of the condition of crops in this as well as the other counties of the State; a matter that we are all more or less interested in. This information will be authority from headquarters at Raleigh.

New Discoveries.

In an interview with a prominent Farmers' Alliance officer of the State we learn that the delegates from North Carolina to the meeting of the National Alliance will favor the use of cotton as a material for bagging, and it is their belief that it will certainly be adopted. They state that the pine straw bagging will stain the cotton. It is their belief that a good grade of bagging made from cotton can be furnished for nine cents, and perhaps less, and that cotton will be given the preference over pine straw bagging.

The Biggest Increase of Rolling Stock Yet.

Capt. J. W. Fry, General Superintendent of the C. F. & Y. V. R'y Company spent a day or two in this city the past week and informed an OBSERVER reporter that he had just placed an order for three locomotives, three first class and three second class passenger coaches and three baggage, mail and express cars. In addition to this, one hundred additional boxcars, fifty flat cars and ten stock cars will be built at once at the C. F. & Y. V. shops in this city. This increase of rolling stock, Capt. Fry informs us, has been made necessary to supply the demand created by the extension of the line to Wilmington. Then, we are told, the passenger and freight trains will be run separately.

Trinity College To Go.

The subject of the removal of Trinity College is one that interests many of the readers of the OBSERVER, not only in this county but in the various counties throughout the State. At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of this institution, held in Greensboro a few days since, the following resolutions relative to the removal of the college were adopted by a vote of 15 to 3 in favor of removal:

Resolved, 1st. That after mature and prayerful consideration, we believe it best for the interest of Methodism in North Carolina and the cause of God to move Trinity College to some prominent centre within this State; provided, there shall be tendered to this Board a proper guarantee of a suitable site with buildings on it of at least equal value and as well suited for the uses of the College as those on the present site.

2nd. That a committee of five be appointed to carry out the true intent of the above resolution, and report to the next annual meeting of the Board of Trustees.

The question of removal was discussed in all its phases, occupying nearly the entire day. The following gentlemen were appointed on the committee as provided in the above resolution: Col. J. W. Alspaugh, Winston, President; J. F. Crowell, of Trinity College; Rev. J. E. Mann, of Greensboro; Rev. Dr. W. S. Black, of Raleigh; Rev. J. A. Cunningim, P. E. Warrenton District.

Greensboro, Winston, Durham and Raleigh, are each bidding for the College and as it has settled down to a question of dollars and cents, the public will soon see whose treasury is "flushest."

Crowns Herself With Glory—Fayetteville Turns Out Enmasse and 8,000 People Participate in the Exercises of Memorial Day.

In the memorial exercise here last Friday, Fayetteville crowned herself with glory by a grand and glorious celebration, the crowd, we have been told, being much larger than ever before. It was a day when tender memories and hallowed associations encircled us, and loving hands bedecked the graves of our dead heroes with sweetest flowers—spring's first fruits.

The procession, under Chief Marshal Marsh, was formed in front of the Cumberland House, in the order named by the programme—published in a former issue—and proceeded thence down Hay street to the City Hall; thence up Green street to the court house; and thence to the cemetery, where Mayor Ray introduced Mr. E. W. Pou, of Johnston, as the orator of the day. Mr. Pou delivered a scholarly oration, typical of the occasion, and at the conclusion of his speech received many warm congratulations for his patriotic effort.

The exercises were peculiarly interesting from the beginning and the crowd in attendance was variously estimated at from eight to ten thousand, the number from the county being estimated at from four to five thousand. There were four military companies in line, viz: The Bennettsville Rifles, Maxton Guards, Lumberbridge Light Infantry and Fayetteville Independent Light Inantry, all of which made an admirable display, each company rendering itself conspicuous for its military discipline and soldierly bearing. The graded school, under the direction of Prof. N. A. Sinclair, Mrs. Utley's school, Misses Chamberlain's Ellison's, Mallett's and Matthew's schools, formed an attractive feature of the procession and contributed very materially to the success of the occasion. Likewise the Confederate Veterans, who turned out in large numbers and once more marched to the strains of martial music to pay honor to their dead comrades.

NOTES.

Lieut. Colonel W. S. Cook was in command of the Battalion and displayed remarkable military skill.

Dr. J. A. Hodges, Chief Marshal, having been called off by the sudden illness of his sister, Mr. H. J. Marsh, of the Bank of Fayetteville, was made Chief Marshal of the day, and mastered the situation with the skill of a young Napoleon. His assistants were Sheriff Fisher, Jas. R. Williams, Jas. A. Moore, W. C. Breeden, W. B. Draughon, J. L. Prior, and Dr. and C. M. Breeden, of Bennettsville.

The day passed off pleasantly and no accident occurred to mar the pleasures of the occasion.

Mr. Pou's address won many golden opinions among our people, and we intended to publish at least some extracts therefrom but owing to the lack of space will have to defer this publication till our next. Rev. T. P. Barclay was chaplain and made a beautiful and touching prayer.

A Seven Days Baptist Church.

Mr. Alex. Bolton, of Carver's Creek township has just completed and turned over to the proper authorities a new church for the Seven Days Baptist denomination, at the old Bloomfield Baptist Church grounds, 9 miles from Fayetteville. This is a new field for the Seven Days Baptist, and Mr. Bolton tells us this is the first and only church this denomination has in the State. Be it remembered, that Cumberland county is the birthplace of Presbyterianism in North Carolina. We are not familiar with the doctrine of this denomination, but Mr. Bolton tells us the Committee on building would not allow him to work on Saturdays, that they kept Saturdays instead of Sundays, their reason being that Saturday was the seventh day and Sunday the first.

Personal Penelings.

Mr. R. D. Melvin, of Lumberbridge, called to see us Tuesday.

Col. Julius A. Gray celebrated the tenth of May in this city.

Mr. Frank Powell of the Tarboro Southerner and D. J. Aarons, of the Mt. Olive Telegram are in the city.

R. B. Kerner and J. W. Bradford, of Winston, are in the city, representing the Winston Lodge I. O. O. F.

Mr. Jas. W. Albright, Jr., Dr. Chas. M. Glenn are representing the Greensboro Lodge I. O. O. F. here this week.

Capt. R. P. Gray and R. A. Jenkins, of Greensboro, came down Monday afternoon for a brief sojourn in the city.

Capt. John M. Goddard is here shaking hands with his many old friends, after an absence of several months in the western part of the State.

Mrs. Jas. H. Southgate, of Durham, sister to Mrs. A. S. Huske, has been on a visit to friends and relatives in this city during the past week.

We were glad to have a call from Mr. R. B. Monroe, of Cheraw, S. C., a former son of Cumberland, who is here attending the Pearson meetings.

Brother St. Clair of the Sanford Express joined the good people of the Capital City of the Upper Cape Fear in celebrating the 10th of May here last Friday.

Mr. C. A. Brown, of the Bennettsville Democrat, and J. P. Gibson, of the Pee Dee Alliance, of the same place, paid their respects to the OBSERVER last Friday.

Mrs. Judge John A. Gilmer, who has been here with the Judge during the past week, has returned to her home in Greensboro, delighted with Mr. Pearson's preaching.

Capt. W. J. Tolar and family left on the Steamer "Hutt" Monday morning for their new home in Conway, S. C. Capt Tolar has been a citizen of Fayetteville for many years and we regret that he cannot find it to his interest to remain here longer.

Arrivals at Hotel LaFayette, Tuesday.

The Hotel LaFayette is enjoying a boom unprecedented in its history. Mine Host, Barker, tells us he fed 500 people memorial day and 100 dined with him Sunday. To-day he has about 125 guests including the delegates to the Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F., now in session here. Below we give the register for Tuesday:

An Important Matter.

EDITOR OBSERVER:—Many of your readers in this city have long recognized the importance of having such a building in our midst as the Pearson Tabernacle, and are curious to know what disposition will be made of the building after the meeting closes. I have heard that it would be torn down and moved away, but hope you can give some information that will meet with a warmer reception at the hands of your readers than such a rumor as that which I have heard and herewith give.

ANXIOUS ENQUIRER.

In reply to the above we can only say that from the best information we can learn the building will remain unmolested, at least until after the centennial celebration in November.—EDITOR OBSERVER.]

Confederate Veterans.

The regular annual meeting of the Confederate Veterans of Cumberland County, was held in the Town Hall, May 10th, President E. J. Edwards in the chair. In the absence of the Secretary, Mr. E. M. Waddill was called to act in that capacity. Arrangements were made for joining the procession and participating in the memorial exercises of the day. The Veterans were addressed in glowing words of patriotism by the President and Mr. Thos. H. Sutton.

Rev. E. J. Edwards was re-elected President of the corps for the ensuing year, and E. M. Waddill, Secretary for the same term. About thirty names were added to the roll. The surviving members of the corps were requested to meet each succeeding memorial day at the Town Hall, in Fayetteville, for the transaction of business and the election of officers. Meeting adjourned to meet May 10th, 1890.

IN MEMORIAM.

The following tribute is indited by the hand of love to the memory of NANNIE LEAK, who died at her home on Haymount, May 11, 1889. At an age, when life is most attractive and bright, when her feet were just treading the gardens of youth, where the flowers of hope and promise were most bright, even when the morning dew yet trembled upon their fair petals, where grewsome shadows dwelt not to mark, for a moment even, the obscuring of the sun of her complete happiness, she was taken from those who loved her. A little more than a decade of years ago, when left a helpless orphan, Providence cast her lot among her relatives in Fayetteville whose loving hearts went out to greet, welcome and comfort her through all the trials and sorrows of bereavement, and through her whole life gave to her that love and consolation upon which her grateful heart was wont to dwell so tenderly and lovingly. The writer of this simple tribute to the loveliness of her character and to that hallowed memory, which is enshrined in the hearts of all who came in contact with her, knew her well from daily association and the closest intimacy, understood every phase of her character, and, as each year passed over her head, bringing with it marked developments of mind and heart, he learned to appreciate more and more her pure, christian life and felt his heart go out to her with increased affection. Possessing a heart magnanimous in its every impulse, in which no unworthy ambition or mean thought was ever harbored, noble by nature and of lovable and attractive manners, bright in mind and clever intellectually, she was at once the friend and congenial companion of the young; and, through her deference to its attributes and sweet concern for its weakness, a favorite with old age wheresoever she went. Like some sweet flower, which first charming the eye with the sweet bud in the leaf and then expanding petal by petal, develops into the beauty of the complete flower and throws its sweet fragrance around, so was her life;—beautiful in childhood, and as young womanhood was reached, it exhaled the sweet perfume of a pure, christian life which blessed and made happy all about her. For a year prior to her death, her life was one of confinement, suffering and consequent privation from those pure and innocent pleasures in which the young are wont to engage; but all through this period her conduct was marked with a resignation and christian fortitude that elicited the sympathy, love and admiration of all who knew her. Her gay, cheerful disposition did not preclude thoughts of the gravest and most serious nature, as her frequent remarks to intimate ones in the privacy of her room and marked passages in her book of Devotion, which was her constant companion, all eloquently attest; and this thought, sweet beyond compare, comforts the hearts of us who rely on His divine promise. Methinks that had she possessed the power, just before her pure soul took its flight, her pallid lips would have said and her arms would have reached out to grasp the fruition of her prayer: "Jesu Christ, I come; take me to thy sheltering bosom." Loving hands laid her to her last earthly sleep by the side of her beloved sister whose sweet spirit winged its flight to God just one year ago; the tender eyes of young maidenhood were dim with tears as it covered her last resting place with pure and beautiful flowers, fitting emblems of her life and character, and as the sun kissed the western hills, slowly and sadly turned from the spot hallowed and made sacred by the precious deposit. As we pen these loving words and heartfelt eulogies we thank God for the thought that they are written in no studied or conventional manner, "that when living we loved her; while the heart beat, it was our love that attuned its pulsations to strains of happiness and joy; while the eye could still turn to us with moist, timid entreaty, love mirrored in our own was reflected into it; while the ear, that delicate messenger to the inmost sanctuary of the soul, could still take in the tones of kindness, our love uttered them; and while the creative brain could still throb with the sense of appreciation rendered, justice given, forbearance shown and love bestowed," it was all hers. For then we sadly thought: "the heart will by-and-by be still, the eye will cease to entreat, the ear will be deaf, the brain will have ceased from all wants as well as from all work," and then, oh! then of what avail will be our charitable speeches, our glowing eulogies and our words of tenderest love!

THE VOW OF WASHINGTON.

John Greenleaf Whittier.]

[The following poem was written specially for the Washington Centennial Inauguration and was read by Clarence W. Bowen.]

The sword was sheathed in April's sun
Lay green the fields by Freedom won;
And several sections, weary of debates,
Joined hands at last and were United States.

O City sitting by the Sea!
How proud the day that dawned on thee,
When the new era, long desired, began,
And, in its need, the hour had found the man!

One thought the cannon salvos spoke;
The resonant bell-tower's vibrant stroke,
The voiceful streets, the plaudit-echoing halls,
And prayer and hymn borne heavenward from St. Paul's.

How felt the land in every part
The strong throb of a nation's heart,
As its great leader gave, with reverent awe,
His pledge to Union, Liberty and Law!

The pledge the heavens above him heard,
That vow the sleep of centuries stirred;
In world-wide wonder listening peoples beat
Their gaze on freedom's great experiment.

Could it succeed? Of honor sold
And hopes deceived all history told.
Above the wrecks that strewed the mournful past,
Was the long dream of ages true at last?

Thank God! the people's choice was just,
The one man equal to his trust,
Wise without lore, and without weakness good,
Calm in the strength of flawless rectitude!

His rule of justice, order, peace,
Made possible the world's release;
Taught prince and serf that power is but a trust,
And rule, alone, which serves the ruled is just;

That Freedom generous is, but strong
In hate and fraud and selfish wrong,
Pretense that turns her holy truths to lies,
And lawless license masking in her guise.

Land of his love! with one glad voice
Let the great sisterhood rejoice;
A century's suns o'er thee have risen and set,
And God be praised, we are one nation yet.

And still, we trust, the years to be
Shall prove his hope was destiny,
Leaving our flag with all its added stars
Unrent by faction and unstained by wars!

Lo! where with patient toil he nursed
And trained the new set plant at first,
The widening branches of a stately tree
Stretch from the sunrise to the sunset sea.

And in its broad and sheltering shade,
Sitting with none to make afraid,
Were we now silent, through each mighty limb,
The winds of heaven would sing the praise of him.

Our first and best! his ashes lie
Beneath his own Virginia sky.
Forgive, forget, O true and just and brave
The storm that swept above thy sacred grave!

Forever in the awful strife,
And dark hours of the nation's life,
Through the fierce tumult piereed his warning word,
Their father's voice his erring children heard!

The change for which he grayed and sought
In that sharp agony was wrought;
No partial interest draws its alien line
'Twixt North and South, the cypress and the pine!

One people now, all doubt beyond,
His name shall be our Union-bond;
We lift our hands to Heaven, and here and now,
Take on our lips the old Centennial vow.

For rule and trust must needs be ours;
Chooser and chosen both are powers
Equal in service as in rights; the claim
Of Duty rests on each and all the same.

Then let the sovereign millions, where
Our banner floats in sun and air,
From the warm palm-lands to Alaska's cold,
Repeat with us the pledge a century old!

Plan for Getting Out Swamp Mud on Uplands.

Written for the Observer.]

MR. EDITOR:—Here is my plan for getting out swamp mud, which if any of your subscribers who own mud land near their farms will adopt and use it to a reasonable extent, will find it worth many times the subscription price of your paper.

It has long been conceded by chemists that good swamp muck is about equal in value to stable manure as a fertilizer. But to realize good effects from its use it must go through the decomposition of the compost. The great drawback to the use of muck has been the difficulty of getting it out of the creeks, swamps and branches, requiring causeways, &c., to be constructed to keep the carts and teams from miring. And another serious trouble is the large quantity of water that is taken up with it, giving it very great weight, being almost double as heavy when taken out as it is when dry.

My plan is to take boards about 1½ inches thick, 10 inches wide, any length, laid on the ground or mud, after the fashion of wheel barrow runs, and side of the boards or run lay a log or some poles for a walk. Then let the man who is to get out the mud take empty flour barrels into the swamp and letting them stand on the plank until they are filled with the mud, and then by careening the barrel he can roll or cut it along on the plank, he using the poles or log above mentioned for a walk until he gets it out on firm ground where team can safely come. Then let him by a quick movement turn the barrel bottom upwards, and thus let them stand until all the water dries out of the barrel. Then when ready to haul up to the barn yard or compost heap the barrels can be turned up and thus the teams can be loaded very rapidly, besides they can haul double as much of the dry muck. The saving where the business is to be done to any extent is very great, and this plan opens up resources for a great many farmers throughout the middle and eastern portion of this State to enrich their lands at much less cost than is offered by artificial or bought fertilizers.

Concerning Sleepers.

Some railroad man has given to the world what he knows on this subject in the following: "A sleeper is one who sleeps. A sleeper is that in which the sleeper sleeps. A sleeper is that on which the sleeper runs while the sleeper sleeps. Therefore, while the sleeper sleeps in the sleeper the sleeper carries the sleeper over the sleeper under the sleeper until the sleeper which carries the sleeper jumps the sleeper and wakes the sleeper in the sleeper by striking the sleeper under the sleeper, on the sleeper, and there is no longer any sleeper sleeping in the sleeper on the sleeper."

Thick Mortar in Brickwork.

G. D. Dempsey, in the Architect, London, says: One important rule has to be observed in order to produce good brickwork, viz., that the mortar should be as thick as it may be, or as nearly approaching the solid form as is consistent with the degree of plasticity essential for its proper distribution and penetration into the joints, while the bricks should be thoroughly wetted on the surface. By these means the adhesion between them is rendered the more perfect, and the subsequent amount of shrinking and settlement is reduced to a minimum.

An ugly complexion made Nellie a fright,
Her face was all pimply and red,
Though her features were good, and her blue eyes were bright,
"What a plain girl is Nellie"! they said.

But now, as by magic, plain Nellie has grown
As fair as an artist's bright dream;
Her face is as sweet as a flower new-blown,
Her cheeks are like peaches and cream.

As Nellie walks out in the fair morning light,
Her beauty attracts every eye,
And as for the people who called her a fright,
"Why, Nellie is handsome"; they cry.

And the reason of the change is that Nellie took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which regulated her liver, cleared her complexion, made her blood pure, her breath sweet, her face fair and rosy, and removed the defects that had obscured her beauty. Sold by druggists.

The Breath on Steel.

Iron Age.]

Many people imagine that by blowing their breath on the blade of a knife they can tell whether the blade is steel or pot-metal. Now, a person's breath will adhere to a pot-metal blade and fade away the same as on steel, but nine out of ten men don't know this, and that is the reason why so many people carry inferior pocket knives. I hate to see a man enter my store and blow his breath on a steel knife. Unless the knife is rubbed off right after it will rust and spoil the appearance of it.

Origin of the Word "Dun."

The word "dun" owes its origin to one Joe Dun, a famous bailiff in Lincoln in the time of Henry VII. He is said to have been so extremely shrewd in the management of his rough business, and so dexterous in the collection of dues, that his name became proverbial, and whenever a man refused to pay his debts, it grew into custom to say, "Why don't you 'dun' him?"

NOTICE.

NORTH CAROLINA, } In Superior Court.
CUMBERLAND COUNTY.
W. N. Williams, Trustee, and J. D. Williams ex. Mrs. Elizabeth Walker and A. B. Walker her husband.
Notice of Lis Pendens.

The object of the above action is to subject the lands of the defendants to the payment of certain indebtedness created by them in favor of the plaintiffs and secured by two certain deeds or trust recorded in Book A, No. 3, Pages 584 and 654 in Register's office of Cumberland County, said lands being particularly described therein, as well as in the complaint of the Plaintiffs which is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Cumberland County where said action is now pending.

The dates of the mortgages (or deeds of trust herein referred to are December 27th, 1878, and March 10th, 1879, and they were recorded respectively on January 13th and March 11th, 1879.

The relief prayed for by the plaintiffs in this action is that the lands described in said deeds of trust be sold and the proceeds thereof applied to the satisfaction of the debts therein secured.

W. N WILLIAMS, Trustee.
and J. D. WILLIAMS, Plaintiffs.
